

- * An American success is someone who is proficient at fraud.
- * An American legend is someone who the defrauders cannot trick or break but only kill.
- * In America, if ^{you} aren't the trickster you're the tricked, if you aren't the con artist then you're the ~~con~~ coned, if you aren't the defrauder then you are the defrauded.
- * Success is meaningless (except for bragging) unless it's in an area that you love.

"If I had my life to live over again, I'd take more chances. I'd want more passion in my life. Less fear and more passion, more risk. Even if you fail, you've still taken a risk." Salenger in Shoeless Joe

It is the place and the time. The right place and right time. A time when all the cosmic tumblers have clicked into place and the universe opens up for a few seconds, or hours, and shows you what is possible
- Kencella in Shakespeare p. 99

Build it and it will come.
Ease his pain.
Go the distance.
Fulfill the dream.

I know that some of us get to reach out and touch our heart's desire, like a child who gets to pet the nose of an old horse, soft as satin, soft as a grandfather's lap.
And I know too, that when most people reach for that heart's desire, it appears not as a horse but as a tiger, and they are rewarded with snarls, frustration, and disillusionment. - Kencella

As with most of life, anticipation has been 9/10ths of the actual event. - Kencella

Success is getting what you want, but happiness is wanting what you get Kid Sassans

People process the resources of the universe.
They take the resources and do something with them that results in a product or service

For it's money they have, and peace they lack.
-Salinger

But mostly, the arrivals will be couples who have withered and sickened of the continued urgency of their lives... "
-Salinger (253)

One of us, who are feverishly mean when we transact and serenely lofty when we read.

Murray Kempton as Nixon

* The huddled masses can distinguish between right & wrong
And they will do the right thing if they do not have to do anything. They will do the wrong thing if it will benefit them and they believe they can get away with it.
Then they will rationalize it was the right because it benefited them.

* It's not the obstacles or opportunities that are important, but you're reaction to them.

* A talented man in a state of futility.

* For every generation there is a battle for which a choosing of sides is required. Many, however, will hide rather than choose and in that make their choice. The lives of all will be defined by the fight and the choice they have made. The battle may be short or long but will always seem interminable. Sides will be changed, ~~and others~~ ^{some will} withdraw and ~~even~~ other join. ~~Nevertheless~~, that marker in history will haunt its generation with regret, satisfaction or horror, depending on their choices, until their memories are silenced by the graves.

All accomplishments prior or subsequent will pale in comparison to what was done or ^{what} could have been done.

If you're not a little nervous, then you're not risking enough.

There's a point beyond which we cannot return. That is the point that must be reached. Kafka

* I cannot help wondering that all those psychological analyzes are nothing more than illusions to trick us into living ~~longer~~ longer than evolution meant.

Opportunity to rebel - blew it
Opportunity to make $ - blew it

Only one substance in the universe

* There's a war on, the enemies are all those who rely on superficial characteristics to identify their group

* An individual's state of consciousness is the result of evolution and civilization. It consists of a structure of electrochemical reactions and relationships. These reactions and relationships can be changed resulting in different states of consciousness. There is nothing bad about a different or altered state of consciousness, but it is dysfunctional in present day society. It is dysfunctional because present day society has been built in accordance with the evolutionary and socially influenced states of consciousness. As a result, any altered state of consciousness will inhabit an alien and strange land.

* Completely alone except for me, myself and I ~~and~~ but with access to information, ideas, advice and temporary sanctuary from friends.

Bimbosism * Most girls under 25 are convinced they are attractive and precious, but over 25 they realize they are losing their attractiveness while ^(believing they) remaining precious. A key power for girls is their attractiveness. A major psychological motivation of the female movement is to acquire alternative powers to compensate for the loss of attractiveness.

Bimbosism * Marriage is more likely to make a man do the things he does not want to than do the things he does want to.

* Nothing, except what you do is controllable; everything else is up to the gods

Bimbosism * The left today is a desperate mix of self-interest groups filled with self-righteous hypocritical bigots. They rail against exclusion, while practicing it themselves. They demand to be heard, while denying it to others. They tout the correctness of their thinking and try to control the thought of others. They demand preferential treatment, while they discriminate against others. They want the benefits but not the burdens.

* You can go through just so many bells, until you reach a point where ^{you cannot handle} even the most trivial of inconveniences.

After all these years, still no significant accomplishments from a radical, reform, liberal or bourgeois perspective.

* The issue is whether you choose to be a nobody ^{a person} ~~one~~ who does just enough to get along or less) or try to be somebody (a person who tries to achieve his potential).

* It's amazing how much money can be made working in the world of medicine make believe.

* Human ideology or world view or value systems range across a continuum from selfish self centered to altruistic. An individual's happiness depends on working in an endeavor compatible to his particular ideology and, most importantly, achieving success in that ~~entire~~ field. The more successful the individual is the more the notoriety, ^{secured} ranging from local to regional to national to international.

* Life is a willingness to put yourself in a situation where the butterflies attack and then you counter attack ~~on~~ In other words, be willing to make a fool of yourself.

Feminazis

Went thru hell Viet Nam

♀ benefited from Viet Nam as did apostles of greed
Now find self under assault from ♀

Never did anything to you

In adult life

Always treated females fairly & honestly

Treated independent & capable but wanted to keep pedestal Tried to keep relations smooth but complained I did not get angry

Never touched except in tenderness ^{but} ~~and~~ complained no violence

So now you people trying to make me a sycophant, supplicant

Trying to control thoughts, speech and actions
Well Honey don't play that game

In America

Everytime turn around, feminazi trying to make me a second class citizen.

Minorities filled w/ hate & bigotry towards me Apostles of greed using their wealth and power to push us pell mell down a road of evolutionary extinction

American white girls are spoiled, greedy and weak

* I would like to be wealthy (rich), successful and accepted, but I also want to fight many of the irrational policies and trends in this social-political-economic order.

Priorities: Freedom
Justice
Purpose
Friends
Lover Amante
Obligations

* The stress of the actual situation is insignificant to the anticipatory stress.

* It is illogical to group people by superficial characteristics (color, sex, sexual preference) then stereotype that group with having certain traits and use those stereotypes to injure (cognizable harm) individuals of that group

Folks tried to limit my experience and knowledge of life in order to make me lead the type of life they wanted me to.

* You have a choice: You can do what ~~you can~~ you ^{can} to acquire as much tangible and intangible property and social status as is possible and/or you can do what you can to assist the possible success of this particular experiment in higher intelligence.

I want the commonly recognized trappings of success (gain & recognition) so my ego will not constantly feel insulted or belittled, but I resist subverting my personality and beliefs to do what is necessary to successfully serve corporate greed.

* A problem simply offers an opportunity to think anew.

* A net worth limit will reduce the world's population because more families will be able to substitute capital for children. It will reduce the influence of the dollar on gov't decisions by diffusing money power, leaving arguments over benefit of an action as the criteria for decision making as opposed to ^{the} pecuniary gain of a few. Break the lock that highly polluting cos have on decision making but diffusing the money power that favors these cos.

Picking up chicks

1. Very attractive
2. Go w/ the flow: wait
3. Look for her signal
4. Put ego in hand
5. Make move

* There is no greater burden than a great potential

* You never know what opportunity a stranger is bringing or what disaster

Creativity = novelty + meaning

Bizarre ≠ creativity

Everyone has a creative bent, one of the sectors of intelligence in which they are uniquely capable

Field of Dreams

Pursuing an endeavor may be pursuing a dream without knowing it

The pursuit may make dreams come true to others.

There will always be times of crisis trying to divert the pursuit

The steps following the most immediate step will be unknown

But once one step is taken or the immediate step is taken, no matter how illogical, the next will reveal itself

The path and the end are unclear.

It may be that what is believed to be the dream is not, but something else is fated

The trials of the pursuit will never be as problematic as the failure to continue the pursuit

* Wouldn't it be ironic, if the universe was constructed in such a way that if a ~~large~~^{significant} number of rational intelligences pursued their dreams the dreams of all would come true

* It is easy to acquire wealth in America. All it takes is amorality, hard work, tolerance for a degree of abuse and a good education from a decent school.
